NCSRCC represents nearly 26,000 union carpenters, floor coverers, millwrights and pile drivers in six states. Women work in every capacity, from foremen to superintendents to instructors, as well as on a variety of jobsites from interior systems to trade shows to highway heavy. They build everything from stadiums to malls, office buildings to multi-family housing, and everything in-between.

Sisters in the Brotherhood is an organization within the Carpenters Union that supports and celebrates women in the trade.

Our mission is to create a network of active Sisters who promote the values of leadership, strength and unity within the labor movement. Our valuable mentoring network will provide you with the tools to be confident and successful in a highly competitive industry.

We advocate for involvement from women in all levels of union leadership and activities because when women work in construction, we all benefit. Meet other women, like you, who enjoy the challenge of physical labor and working with their hands as well as their brains.
