PAPILLION, NE - Work is nearing completion at the new Training Center and Council Office in Papillion, Neb. The facility, located at 10761 Virginia Plaza (108th and Giles Road), will house member training facilities, meeting and office space for Omaha-area Locals 427, 1306 and 1463, office space for Council staff, and a branch office for Wilson-McShane, which provides benefit funds for members.

The current Council building in Omaha is outdated and no longer large enough to suit the needs of a growing membership. Housing the Local and Council offices in one place will allow for a more convenient stop for both membership and contractors. Additionally, the location of the building in Papillion allows the Council to better serve members in Lincoln as well as in Omaha.

General Contractor on the project is D.R. Anderson Constructors, Co., with Falewitch Construction Services, Inc., performing sheet rocking. The architect is Schemmer Architects. The new space will house the latest in modern technology for both the training and office spaces.

The building will be open for business September 1, with an open house event currently scheduled for October 14.

In a couple of weeks, 77 elected delegates from each of our 28 Locals, along with 26 alternates, will travel to Las Vegas for the 41st General Convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. More than just a chance to hear from our union’s national leaders, the Convention is a time to reflect on the past five years, chart a course for the next five, and re-inspire each of us to continue to improve our Brotherhood.

I’m particularly excited about several of our union’s initiatives, both internationally and here at the regional and local levels, that prioritize three important areas:

Member Involvement
The key to a strong union is the active involvement of its members. The UBC has advanced the growth of its members in many ways during the past five years, including the creation of a Journeyman Leadership program. Our Council has sent 436 of our members to this four-day program at the International Training Center in Las Vegas, and will send another 180 members in September. Over time, the UBC expects to send 10,000 members per year through this training where members learn to maximize their roles as leaders on the job and throughout our union.

Our Council has done additional work with these Journeyman Leaders once they’ve returned from the training, including in-person and teleforum conferences, and emails updating them on various initiatives. This fall we plan to revitalize our program by helping members to participate in one of four key areas: recruiting, member retention, community service and political activity.

Our members are getting involved in other ways, as well. We’ve launched Foreman Meetings involving dozens of members in eight areas of our Council. We are expanding the scope and range of our apprenticeship committees. Our Sisters in the Brotherhood program has never been more active, and has been selected by the UBC to create a program marketing our members to end users.

On a more personal level, every member now has the opportunity to vote on their contracts and have input on where their money goes. Similarly, rank-and-file members participate on contract negotiations teams, giving them a view of the negotiations process and making sure invaluable input from members working in the field is brought to the table.

Accountability to members
Your elected Council delegates have been key in voting for policies to aid their brothers and sisters, including a flat dues rate structure whereby members who work overtime aren’t paying more dues than their fellow members, and the removal of unnecessary administrative fees from member vacation plans by choosing to shift those funds to a savings plan. Through strategic decision-making, Council leadership and its delegates are ensuring your hard earned money is spent with accountability and transparency.

The Council has also hired a Controller, whose role is to track the health and stability of Council finances. She helps Council leadership to create budgets, which are presented to and approved by the delegate body. She monitors assets and liabilities, capital expenditures and improvements, and cash flow and investments.

Growing Market Share
Active and informed members, paired with smart, strategic leadership by your union, are helping us gain market share around the region. We attend UBC-sponsored conferences with our signatory contractors that feature experts in their industry areas, exposing them to our training facilities and allowing them to network and better understand the goals of the UBC. This added value is helping them beat out the non-union competition.

The UBC is also aiding us in the fight against payroll fraud, including developing materials to help our members, contractors, end users and the general public understand the costs of misclassification of workers. Cracking down on contractors who cheat the system is an important way we’re making sure union contractors can compete on a level playing field.

In the last few years, our Council has made needed improvements to a number of our member buildings in regard to function and visibility. This includes new Local buildings in Bemidji and Virginia, Minn., and general repairs or upgrades in heating and air conditioning, roofs, parking lots and signage in other buildings throughout our six states.

Our largest project is the consolidation of Local and Council offices with the Training Center in Omaha, creating a state-of-the-art, full service facility for members, contractors and more. I feel this new building is going to make a real impact on the work we are able to perform in Nebraska and I look forward to showing it to you at an Open House in October. Please watch your email and our social media channels for more information as we draw closer to that event.

As your EST, I am so proud of the steps the UBC and this Council have taken during the last five years to ensure that its members come first, that your voices are being heard, and that the future looks brighter than ever.

In solidarity,

Resource Management: Upholding standards for all carpenters

As a member, you want to feel good about the dollars that are being spent in all areas of our Council. As UBC General President Doug McCarron says, “You have to understand and believe in the mission of our union. You have to be able to explain that vision to someone else and make him or her believe in it, too.”

Having an Area Standards program through our Council means our Business Representatives are educating contractors, members, underrepresented workers and the general public. Through their efforts, the lives of all carpenters across our six-state Council are being elevated. Payroll fraud and worker misclassification is being exposed and people are moving toward getting the wages and benefits they deserve.

The right to fair pay
Area Standards means fighting for the right to fair pay for all carpenters — union and nonunion alike. No matter who you are or where you work, we believe you deserve to receive the area standard for the work you perform.

Business Representatives visit non-Area Standard jobsites to shed light on employers who want to make a buck on the backs of their employees without providing them fair wages and benefits. More than that, we let our communities know about it through public awareness campaigns. Although we try to keep tabs on all non-Area Standards contractors, we focus on the worst offenders to maximize our impact.

When on a non-AS jobsite, our Representatives learn more about the contractor and its business practices, talk to workers, and document pertinent information. Due to our efforts, we have helped carpenters across our jurisdiction gain access to higher pay, benefits, job safety and training.

“Our public awareness campaigns, we’ve not only created more opportunities to work for our members, but we’ve also helped level the playing field for honest contractors who believe in paying their employees what they’ve earned,” said Director of Resource Management Phil Askvig.

Building relationships
Another important aspect of Area Standards is building relationships. Not only does our staff build relationships with underrepresented carpenters, we build them with our partner contractors and our own members. We visit just as many union jobsites as we do non-union, listening and responding to member questions and concerns, as well as those of our contractors.

We want our contractors to be familiar with us on many levels, and not just during contract negotiations. We have invited them to participate in conferences both at our Council and at the UBC’s International Training Center. Not one contractor has walked away from a conference without a clearer vision of who we are, what we do, and the great future that lies ahead for all of us if we work together.

As part of Area Standards, Business Representatives dispatch members to jobsites and document prevailing wage rates. They help recruit, orient and mentor new members. They address member grievances and assist in member retention. They sign new contractors, serve on contract negotiation teams, preserve jurisdiction and acquire new work.

They participate in a variety of meetings, including Local, Building Trades, school board, city council and more. This helps favorably hone our image in the community as active, knowledgeable and dedicated to helping all working class people. They visit schools and attend career fairs, telling the community about who we are, what we do and why it matters. Taking the lead on community service events is also a big part of sharing our skills and stories with the wider community.

Political action
Another key part of Area Standards is working closely with our Political Directors to engage lawmakers and help them understand issues that are important to carpenters. We spend time door knocking, phone banking and visiting members of the Legislature. We support them, educate them and connect them to their working class constituents. We also hold them accountable for the promises they make and the actions they take.

At its inception, organizing workers to create better lives for all was the sole reason behind the creation of the UBC. Today, we want the public to understand that Area Standards is what we work toward for all carpenters.
CONSIDER A CREDIT UNION LOAN

Taking out a loan from the Carpenters Federal Credit Union just got easier. No longer do you need to leave work early or drive in traffic — you can now apply for loans from any device, or simply open your email and sign your loan documents.

Every time a union member chooses Carpenters Federal Credit Union over another financial institution, it benefits all union members and their families. Members who choose the Credit Union for their loan needs make it possible to keep loan rates low and savings dividends high.

The Credit Union offers a variety of loans for vehicles, ATVs, snowmobiles, boats, campers, mortgages and more.

If you haven’t already, consider becoming a member of a credit union that was established by union workers who wanted a place to call their own. A place where CFCU staff value and respect its members and their families.

PARTIAL PREVAILING WAGE REPEAL INCLUDED IN WISCONSIN STATE BUDGET

Despite the many calls, emails, letters and in-person discussions our members had with Wisconsin legislators over the issue of Prevailing Wage, a State Budget bill was passed in July to include a partial repeal of Wisconsin’s longstanding prevailing wage law. Wisconsin Governor Scott Walker made no attempt to veto the legislation.

“This was in no way due to a lack of effort by our members or our staff,” said EST John Raines. “Without the work of our membership, the Republican legislators in Wisconsin would have pushed through a full repeal of prevailing wage directly on the heels of their anti-worker ‘Right to Work’ legislation. Because of us, the full repeal bills introduced in both the Senate and the Assembly were ignored, and actual debate was had for weeks instead of mere days.

“We had a hand in everything you saw or heard in defense of prevailing wage statewide,” he added. “We worked with allies that included contractors, other building trades and small business owners who all believe in fighting for middle class wages.”

Even with all of the hard work by members and friends of our union, the partial repeal is still a tough pill to swallow, EST Raines said.

“We did some good things in this fight, but we were dramatically outspent,” said EST Raines. “Going forward, we will have to marshal our efforts as we prepare for upcoming elections and activity in an effort to protect our jobs, families and quality of life.”

The new language does not become effective until 2017, which makes involvement in the 2016 elections especially important for union construction workers.

• It exempts all local governments, including schools, cities, counties and municipalities from prevailing wage enforcement.

• It also weakens prevailing wage enforcement.

• It sets wages on state construction jobs to the federal Davis-Bacon rate, which currently follows union rates in most areas.

“To be clear, the fight is not over,” said EST Raines. “Attempts will continue to be made to repeal prevailing wage entirely from the state construction portfolio. We have a lot of work to do to ensure that Davis-Bacon works for Wisconsin, and we will be vigilant about policing contractors and jobsites.”

WILSON-MCSHANE HAS DEDICATED NUMBER FOR NCSRCC FAMILIES

After many discussions regarding increasing customer service to participants, Wilson-McShane, plan administrator for health and pension benefits for members in several states in our Council, has created new dedicated phone numbers for members participating in Carpenters & Joiners Fringe Funds. Going forward, if you have questions regarding your health and welfare benefits, pension benefits or defined contribution plan benefits, call:

952-851-5788 or 844-468-5916

Wilson-McShane has also opened offices in several Council areas in an effort to allow members better access to get their benefits questions answered. Offices are located at:

‘KIDS BUILD’ WEEKEND WORKSHOPS OFFERED AT ST PAUL TRAINING CENTER

Beginning in September, the North Central States Regional Council of Carpenters is opening the doors of one of its largest training centers to the public in the form of “Kids Build” weekend workshops.

Kids Build events are free, two-hour workshops held from 10 a.m. to noon one Saturday per month September 2015 through May 2016 for children ages 5-12. At these workshops, kids will have the opportunity to make wood projects, as well as build their skills and confidence.

The workshops are limited to 30 children each month, who must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Council staff and members will be on hand to help children make their projects and learn new skills. Projects may include the following: keepsake box, small bench, bookends, tool box, pinewood derby car, key holder/jewelry hanger, candy dispenser, planter or birdhouse.

Tools will be supplied and there are no fees to participate. Children will be able to take their projects home to enjoy, along with a certificate of project completion.

Kids Build workshops will be held at 740 Olive Street in Saint Paul, MN. In 2015, workshops will be held September 12, October 10, November 14, and December 12. In 2016, events will be held January 9, February 13, March 12, April 9 and May 14.

Registration information will be made available in August. For information updates, go to www.facebook.com/KidsBuildworkshop.

TWIC CARD MAY HELP SECURE WORK

A TWIC (Transportation Worker Identification Credential) card is an identification card offered by the Transportation Security Administration. This card is often necessary for employees requiring unescorted access to secure areas at ports, refineries, power facilities and other places where security clearance is required.

A TWIC card costs $128 and remains valid for five years. For more information, go online to www.tsa.gov.
‘BUILD YOUR LIFE’ WITH THE CARPENTERS UNION

Earlier this year, NCSRCC launched a recruitment campaign called “Build Your Life.” The campaign focuses on the stories of real-life carpenters, just like yourselves, and details the value of becoming a skilled carpenter in our brotherhood.

Through the end of August the Council is aggressively targeting recruitment efforts to hire more skilled carpenters in various areas of our Council. This includes recruiting non-members through digital ads on websites like Star Tribune and Facebook, as well as recruitment postcards to be handed out on jobsites, at career fairs and more.

Get Involved: As we know, our best advocates are you, our dedicated members! Check out www.getbetterwages.org and direct potential members there to learn more about the benefits of becoming a skilled carpenter. We also encourage you to like and share our new Facebook recruitment page: www.facebook.com/buildyourlifejobs.

Given your knowledge and expertise, we highly encourage you to engage with the campaign. Share or like content with your friends and family. Help answer questions from those inquiring about carpentry jobs. The more engagement we have from our members, the better our recruitment efforts.

Do you know an experienced non-union carpenter? There’s a good chance we can help them find a job with a union contractor. Send them today to www.getbetterwages.org.

JOB POSTINGS AVAILABLE ON COUNCIL WEBSITE

To help facilitate putting you in touch with contractors who are looking for employees, we have created a job board on the Council website.

This board lists open jobs across our six-state Council, as well as all of the particulars that are important to you — start dates, wages, and special requirements. To visit this job board, go to www.northcountrycarpenter.org/job-board.php. This page is updated regularly as jobs get filled and new opportunities become available.

JOIN THE LABOR CHORUS

The Twin Cities Labor Chorus invites members of all unions to raise their voices in song. Rehearsals are held at 7 p.m. the second, fourth and fifth Tuesdays of each month at 710 Olive Street in Saint Paul. All voice parts and ages are welcome.

For more information, contact Director Josh Wise at tclaborchorus@gmail.com.

TURN TO T.E.A.M. IN TIMES OF STRUGGLE

T.E.A.M. is an employee assistance program offered to members covered under the Wilson-McShane benefit funds. T.E.A.M. can help you and your family members with a variety of health and emotional needs. For more information about what T.E.A.M. can do for you, go online to www.team-mn.com/eap or speak confidentially with a T.E.A.M. counselor 24/7 by calling 651-642-0182 or 800-634-7710.

EST John Raines, left, and staff members work with Senator Al Franken (D-Minnesota) during a Town Hall Teleconference, where members were live on the phone with Senator Franken and were able to ask questions about politics in Minnesota and the U.S. To sign up for teleforum notifications, go online to www.northcountrycarpenter.org/cell-authorization.php.
POLYMET MINING PROPOSAL MOVES FORWARD IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA

Under the ground in Northeastern Minnesota lies one of the world’s largest untapped deposits of copper, nickel and other precious metals. Polymet Mining reached a major milestone this spring in its effort to develop the first project to mine these resources when the state’s Department of Natural Resources announced the preliminary final Environmental Impact Statement for the project. At more than 3,000 pages, the document lays out the complex and detailed plans to mine these metals while protecting surrounding land and waters from pollution.

Polymet’s CEO Jon Cherry said in a statement, “The PFEIS now reflects a solid foundation to build a modern mine and create hundreds of new well-paying jobs for Minnesotans, while keeping the state’s outdoor and natural resources safe, clean and healthy for generations to come.”

Polymet is proposing an open pit mine near Hoyt Lakes, Minn., on the eastern edge of the Iron Range. That region is no stranger to mining — iron ore has been mined throughout the area for more than 100 years. In fact, Polymet is proposing to rehab and reuse an existing processing facility that was shut down by LTV Steel more than a decade ago, along with its tailings basin. It plans to invest $400 million into the plant before it opens. In addition to the tens of thousands of work hours for carpenters, millwrights and pile drivers needed to open the plant, the project would create 360 full-time jobs inside the mine and processing facilities.

The stakes are high for Polymet, and all eyes are watching carefully to see if they’ll get the necessary approvals and permits to successfully operate. A second, and much larger, underground mine is being proposed by Twin Metals Mining a little bit northwest of Polymet. Several other companies are actively exploring various sites throughout the region as well.

Jobs for Minnesotans, a coalition dedicated to promoting the economic and job creation benefits that copper mining can bring to the state (of which the Regional Council is a member), estimates that copper mining could create thousands of jobs in the region for generations.

Last year, as the DNR held public hearings on the Polymet proposal, dozens of UBC members rallied and testified in support of the project at meetings in Aurora, Duluth and Saint Paul. Despite heavy turnout by environmentalists who oppose new mining in the region, our members, along with members of other trades unions and other supporters, outnumbered opponents. Polymet has pledged to exclusively hire union contractors on its project.

For more information about this proposal and the potential this new industry has, go online to www.jobsforminnesotans.org.

‘RIGHT TO WORK’ PASSES IN WISCONSIN

On March 9, Wisconsin Governor Scott Walker signed a bill making Wisconsin a so-called “Right to Work” state. This will not affect members directly until our contract expires in May 2017, though there will likely be long-lasting effects throughout Wisconsin.

“Losing the Right to Work fight was not due to our lack of trying as a Council, or your lack of participation as members,” said EST John Raines. “Republican Legislators passed Right to Work over the objections of labor unions and the 455-member Wisconsin Contractor Coalition, which formed to fight Right to Work. These businesses believe that Right to Work infringes on their right to run their businesses on contract terms that allow them to compete in a tough industry.”

In moving to weaken unions, Walker and Republican State Legislators capitulated to the demands of powerful special interests who demanded payback for their support of Republican candidates in the last election. Groups like Wisconsin Manufacturers and Commerce, Associated Builders and Contractors, and Americans for Prosperity — backed by the Koch brothers — led the charge to hurt unions and the business model under which union contractors have chosen to operate. Americans for Prosperity has used its influence across the nation to support Right to Work in other states as well.

“As we move forward, the only real way we are going to affect change is by voting for Legislators who understand our issues, and who vote in favor of helping the middle class, rather than just helping themselves and the investors who claim freedom while restricting the rights of others,” said EST Raines.

Upon receiving Walker’s signature, this legislation made Wisconsin the 25th Right to Work state in the U.S. Minnesota is now the only non-Right to Work state in our Council.

“Right to Work will not have a negative effect on our Council or local unions as long as all members continue to pay their union dues and see the benefits that being a union member provides to them and their families,” said EST Raines. “By working together, we will continue to succeed as a union.”
MORE THAN $60,000 DONATED TO JON STOFFEL FAMILY

On May 3, Local 955 member Jon Stoffel and his 11-year-old daughter, Olivia, were killed in a random shooting while on a family outing in Menasha, Wis. Jon’s wife, Erin, was also shot several times and spent weeks recovering in the hospital. The Stoffel’s other two children were present at the time of the shooting but were physically unharmed.

Jon was working for Boldt Construction at the time of this tragic event. He joined the Carpenters Union in October 2007. The Stoffels are a Christian family and fortunately have the support of their families and friends, as well as their church family.

Generous union members from 26 Locals in our Council voted in their local meetings to donate a total of $20,317.31 to the Stoffel family. The UBC, through its Helping Hands program, donated an additional $10,000. Regional Council delegates, at their June meeting, voted for the Council to match the previous donations, for a total of $60,634.62.

Various members and staff from throughout our Council also chose to make individual donations. Erin Stoffel said she is filled with gratitude and deeply touched by everyone’s caring for her family, and said that Jon was very proud to be a member of the Carpenters Union.

“It is difficult to understand why a tragedy of this proportion happens to any family,” said EST John Raines. “I am grateful Erin and her children have the shoulders of family and friends to lean on in this very painful time in their lives, and I am so proud of the hundreds of members of our Council who chose to support Jon’s family with their donations.”

BRESLIN BOOKS AVAILABLE

If you are a fan of industry motivational speaker Mark Breslin — who has spoken at many UBC conferences as well as to Council delegates last June in Saint Paul — several of his books are kept in stock and ready for free checkout by members at Council offices in Kaukauna, Wis., Omaha, Neb., and Saint Paul, Minn.

The Breslin book library includes: The Five Minute Foreman, Million Dollar Blue Collar, Alpha Dog and Survival of the Fittest.

INSTALL RECEIVES COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD

NWFA, the National Wood Flooring Association, presented a Community Service award to the North Central States INSTALL Floor Covering Training Center at its 2015 Wood Flooring Expo.

The award was for the training center’s participation with Jared Allen’s Homes for Wounded Warriors Foundation, and the foundation’s first-ever house build for a military veteran. For more information about the project, go to page 40.

SEVENTEEN CONTRACTORS SIGNED TO NORTH DAKOTA STATEWIDE AGREEMENT

Seventeen contractors are currently signed to the statewide commercial construction agreement covering the state of North Dakota. Fifteen of those have signed just since July of last year.

“We look forward to continuing the relationships we have with our contractors in North Dakota, and value our partnerships with them now more than ever,” said EST John Raines.

“I would like to thank Regional Council staff for all of their hard work and for time spent away from their families in establishing these many new partnerships in North Dakota,” said EST Raines. “We continue to make great strides in the North Dakota area, both in contractor presence and in increasing membership.”

WORKING DUES REDUCED ON OVERTIME, PREMIUM PAY

At the December 2014 Delegate meeting of the Regional Council, delegates voted to support a proposal made by EST John Raines to reduce working dues for members working overtime or who receive premium pay above negotiated wage rates.

Prior to the change, members paid 4 percent gross wages on all wages earned. This proposal, which became effective along with the most recent wage increases, limits the amount of dues paid to what would be required at straight time under the negotiated wage rate for any member’s classification.

That means that even on overtime hours, a member now pays the same amount of dues for an hour of overtime as they do for an hour at straight time. Members who receive premium pay — an amount their employer pays above the negotiated wage rate — will also pay the same amount of dues as if they were paid at the regular rate.

“The new calculation is more fair and will help those members who work a lot of shutdowns and turnarounds, or members who are putting in overtime,” said Raines.
At the June delegate meeting, a motion was passed to begin to explore the possible benefits of converting Health and Welfare funds from an hour bank into a dollar bank. Please note this change will only be made if Trustees, delegates, and members feel that it will provide a better benefit for members than what we currently have. In exploring this option, we want to hear from you about whether or not you think this is a good idea.

How it might work:
• Under current rules, members “bank” any hours they work in excess of the number needed to maintain health care eligibility. Members can bank up to a set number of hours, at which point their “bank” is capped.
• This new idea would convert existing hour bank into dollars by multiplying each participant’s hours bank by the contribution amount.

Members would not lose existing banked hours. Those hours would be converted into dollars using the current contribution rates.
• Set a monthly premium based on the actual cost of the plan. (For example, let’s assume a monthly premium of $904 and a contribution of $6.95. The actual cost may be higher or lower. We will not know these details until we explore converting to a dollar bank further.)
• All contribution amounts would go into your Dollar Bank.
• Every month the Fund would pull out $904 for coverage. If short, money would be pulled from your bank. If there is no bank you would self-pay the difference.
• All contributions above our example “$904 at $6.95 per hour” would accumulate in the bank each month. Under this example, you would reach $904 after about 130 hours worked.
• Dollar Banks could be used for self-pay, retiree premiums, and to reimburse HRA expenses like deductibles, co-pays, etc.
• Each Contract Bargaining Agreement can set its own contribution rate based on the member’s desire to build bank, or put money on the check. This means that members have more of an impact on their health plans by setting their contribution rates, in contrast with the current system in which trustees inform all Locals of the contribution amount needed to maintain the current level of benefits.
• All payments out of the Dollar Bank for Coverage and HRA expenses go in and are paid out tax-free.
• Dollar Banks reward participants who work the most monthly hours because the bank is not capped.
• Dollar Banks make self-payment easier for members who work steady hours for part of the year and low hours other parts of the year.
• Dollar Banks take on the risk of health care cost inflation because, as the Plan costs increase, the Dollar Banks use old dollars to purchase eligibility.
• Initial eligibility may be easier to earn and will be easier to understand for new members.

Discussion on this topic is expected to take place throughout our Council at Local meetings, Delegate meetings and at the leadership level over the next year. If you have comments regarding whether you feel a Dollar Bank system would be a better choice for you and our members, please share them at your next Local union meeting, or email them to info@ncsrcc.org.

MEMBER FEEDBACK WANTED: WOULD YOU CONSIDER A DOLLAR BANK FOR HEALTH CARE?

FOREMEN MEETINGS FOCUS ON TEAMWORK, PROBLEM-SOLVING

Monthly foreman meetings are currently taking place in eight areas of our Council. The purpose is to give foremen an opportunity to talk about what is happening on their jobsites, problems they may be encountering, and ways they have found to solve those problems. Above, Local 106 foremen participate in a team building and problem-solving exercise. They were put into groups of three or four and asked to build a tower using only straws and tape.
INSTALL Flooring Conference
About 20 representatives from the North Central States Regional Council of Carpenters traveled to Las Vegas, Nev., at the end of January to attend the INSTALL conference at the UBC International Training Center (ITC). Attendees included Council representatives with a background in floor covering, signatory contractors from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa, Executive Secretary-Treasurer John Raines and Executive Director Pat Nilsen.

The three-day conference gave contractors the opportunity to learn from the UBC about the current direction of the flooring industry, as well as the goals of the UBC and its push for more market share, better trained members and cultivation of a new construction culture. This new culture includes leadership training for business representatives, Journeyman Leaders, third-year apprentices and decision makers alike, creating a workforce that is on the same page and ready to lead.

This gathering at the ITC allowed our contractors to see the UBC’s state-of-the-art training facility, hear from industry leaders about what INSTALL means to their business and the market share in their communities. Contractors reached out to Business Representatives after the conference to get their teams certified and to sign their team leaders up for leadership training.

Chad Scherr, Director for Central and Southern Minnesota, said attending the conference was beneficial for strengthening the relationships between the Council and its partner contractors.

“I think it allowed the ownership to see that the UBC and the Council is in the fight for market share with them and for them, and that we care about their business,” said Scherr.

Millwright Conference
In February, more than 40 representatives and partners of NCSRCC traveled to the ITC for the Millwright Leadership Conference. Attendees from our Council included millwrights, business representatives, contractors and instructors. Many of the contractors were visiting the ITC for the first time.

This three-day conference covered a variety of topics including communication, workforce development, training and education, and apprenticeship standards. Dr. Rita Murray spoke about overcoming generational gaps in the workforce and motivational speaker Mark Breslin addressed the need for development of leadership skills in the industry.

This conference was important because staff and members were able to share the mission of the UBC and millwrights with our contractors, and show them how serious the council is about training our members — both technically and professionally.

Wayne Nordin, Director of Millwrights, said he felt the benefit for himself and the other representatives boils down to the relationships it builds with contractors, and proving our commitment to making our contractors successful.

“Hands down the best thing I took from the conference is how sincere the millwrights are about training and future development,” said Brett Cahoon, Project Manager with The Jamar Company. “The [training] facility was more than I expected — and I will now be pushing to get several of our key millwright leaders to train at that facility.”

Interior/Exterior Systems Leadership Conference
In March, 80 signatory contractors, Representatives and other staff attended the 2015 UBC Interior/Exterior Systems Leadership Conference at the ITC.

Industry experts and UBC leadership addressed 580 attendees, including 275 contractors from across the country. Topics included payroll fraud, current and upcoming trends in the industry, health care construction and updates from the Carpenters Training program.

The UBC is focusing its efforts on education, legislation and accountability to fight payroll fraud. Industry trend experts explained that, in order to maintain member growth, contractors must focus on talent and retention of that talent. Best practices in health care construction continues to be implemented and the Carpenters International Training Fund is developing curriculum around maintaining contamination protocols in occupied health care facilities.

In addition to seminars, there were small group sessions to network with others in the Midwestern District. Notably, 65 percent of contractors from the Midwestern District were visiting the ITC for the first time. These breakout sessions were a chance to discuss staffing challenges and industry obstacles in small groups, and allowed contractors and staff to swap stories, share experiences and contemplate solutions.

One of the big takeaways, according to staff, was growing the relationship the Council has with its interior and exterior systems contractors. In a competitive industry, contractor success depends on our productivity as carpenters and union members. The conference allowed the Council to show its contractors exactly what the UBC is willing and able to do to ensure a successful partnership.

“As an employer of Union carpenters I was very impressed with the pride in which the UBC presents itself and the way you train your membership,” said Scott Nordenstrom, Executive Vice President for Wall-tech. “The programs and agents of the UBC were excellent and we look forward to getting our people down to your training facility.”

More than 400 women carpenters gathered to learn, celebrate and network at the Sisters in the Brotherhood (SIB) Conference January 22-25 at the UBC’s International Training Center in Las Vegas, Nev.

Thirty-four members from our Council joined members from across the U.S. and Canada for this three-day conference of workshops, speakers, and an opportunity for women in the field to share thoughts and ideas with one another, creating a network of strong and informed members. UBC leadership also attended the Conference in support of the SIB program and contributed its ideas for “Bridging the Way” to more opportunities for female UBC members.

In addition to workshops, evening receptions and social events enabled SIB members to build relationships, network and discuss common goals presented by the UBC. Council Business Representative Barb Pecks was a member of the conference planning committee and taught workshops at the event.

First-time conference attendee CJ Mace of Millwrights Local 548 said, “I definitely enjoyed the conference. I really felt like this is a place I belong. It renewed my energy and strengthened my resolve to keep going in my apprenticeship. Knowing others going through my experience, who I can learn from, contrast my experience with, crable to sometimes and have them listen, really gives me a boost.

“My favorite part was getting to know a few of the older female millwrights who have been working for a very long time. Also, I loved just meeting all of these capable, mouthy, physical women who love tools and working with their brains and their hands.”

— CJ MACE,
Local 548

“I learned a lot about industry trends like what areas of the economy building/construction is happening in, commodities information, manufacturing information, etc.,” she continued. “I also learned about the different challenges and work environments of the different trades, some tips and skills for working on crews of multiple ages, and leadership skills unique to millwrights.

“The diversity of women in our union really stood out to me,” she added. “There are very few female millwrights in our region, so it was great to be in this huge room of carpenters from all different backgrounds, from all over the continent!”

Leadership opportunities offer extra value for members and contractors

In the last five years, the UBC has created opportunities for its members that not only enhance their leadership abilities, but also increases the bottom line of our contractors. The mission of the following courses, taught at the International Training Center in Las Vegas, Nev., is not only to help create productive jobsite leaders, but to gain market share for all:

Journeymen Leadership program

UBC Journeymen: Building Leadership for a Strong Future

This four-day program is geared toward journey-level craftsmen and women who are leaders on the jobsite. It provides them with the tools and inspiration needed to create a culture of productivity, professionalism, safety and profitability, while instilling can-do attitudes and emphasizing strong partnerships with our contractors. Some of the topics covered are time/resource management, teamwork, generational differences, effective communication skills, mentoring, and transformational leadership.

To learn more about the program, check out this video: https://vimeo.com/123165622

Third-Year Apprentice program

This four-day program was created for apprentices in the third year of their training who are showing exceptional promise as carpenters and leaders. The goal of this program is to help them further understand their role as leaders and their ability to have a positive effect on productivity, safety and professionalism on every jobsite, as well as the UBC’s strong partnership with its contractors.

To learn more about the program, check out this video: https://vimeo.com/123165622

Collaborative Leadership Training

Building Jobsite Leaders

This three-day program is open to all supervisory personnel employed by our contractors regardless of union membership, both in the office and on the jobsite: foremen, general foremen, safety managers, project managers, estimators, superintendents and owners. The program is designed to give jobsite supervisors the tools necessary to improve the overall jobsite, taking it from good to great. Collaborative Leadership focuses on four key areas:

- Entrepreneurship:
  Demonstrating how an individual at any level can create a strong personal brand that makes them essential and strategies to use personal power to create collaborative relationships.

To learn more about the program, check out this video: https://vimeo.com/128025882

Mentoring Training

The UBC’s strongest assets are its members and our signatory contractors. Our members bring a wealth of knowledge about the UBC, the industry, the contractors we are partnered with, and the unique challenges of our jobsites. By utilizing our members’ knowledge and strengthening their mentoring skills, we can help ensure a stronger future for all. This three-day program is designed to increase jobsite productivity by improving member retention through a facilitated mentoring relationship, as well as changing attitudes and enhancing craft skills.

Next program date:

October 19-21, 2015

Please refer candidates for this program to Denise Haugum at 651-379-0264 or dhaugum@ncsrcc.org.

Leadership as a response:

Culture of collaboration:

Encouraging workers to engage each other, make decisions together, improve processes and product together, and to create a sense of commitment and ownership for all.

Communication Skills for Leaders:

Strengthens communications skills and creates an external awareness that turns good communicators into great ones.

To learn more about these programs, contact Denise Haugum at 651-379-0264 or dhaugum@ncsrcc.org.

Training is held over weekends to minimize jobsite disruptions. Transportation, lodging, and meals are provided by the UBC at no expense to contractors or members.

If you would like more information about any of these programs, contact Denise Haugum at 651-379-0264 or dhaugum@ncsrcc.org, or talk with the Business Representative in your area.

- September 24-27, 2015
  Contractors are encouraged to nominate their employees, members are encouraged to nominate other members, and you can even nominate yourself! Nomination forms can be found online at www.northcountrycarpenter.org in the right-hand column.

- October 1-4, 2015
  Next program date:

- November 5-8, 2015
  October 19-21, 2015

- December 4-6, 2015
  Next program date:

- December 4-6, 2015
  Next program date:
One hundred and eighty NCSRCC members attended Journeyman Leadership Training at the UBC’s International Training Center in Las Vegas in March. Another group of 180 will participate in the leadership program in September. If you know of a carpenter who would benefit from this training program, fill out a nomination form at www.northcountrycarpenter.org.

CONTRACTOR HIRING FAIR A RESOUNDING SUCCESS

The Council hosted a Contractor Hiring Fair and Community Open House Wednesday, April 8, in Saint Paul, Minn. The event, held in conjunction with the Apprenticeship Committee’s Tool Expo, featured contractors looking to hire new construction workers, tool vendors showing their wares, demonstrations by apprentices and vendors in our INSTALL training center, a blood drive and more. Hundreds of community members attended the event, and contractors said they were very pleased with the turnout.

TWIN CITY CARPENTERS & JOINERS WELFARE FUND

Frequently Asked Questions

Q. How do I initially become eligible for benefits through the Welfare Fund?
A. You may establish your initial eligibility for benefits under either the “Quarterly (Rolling Three Month) Rule” or the “Six Month Rule” as provided below.

Quarterly (Rolling Three Month) Rule
Under the Quarterly Rule, you will become Covered Under the Plan if during any rolling three month (quarterly) period you accumulate 345 hours worked for a Contributing Employer for which Contributions were received by the Plan. Once you accumulate the required hours during the required period, you will become Covered Under the Plan for a period of three calendar months beginning on the first day of the second calendar month following the month in which you accumulate the requisite 460 hours.

FOR EXAMPLE: If you work a total of 345 hours in the rolling six month period of April through September, you will become eligible for coverage under the Plan on November 1 for the three calendar month period of November, December and January.

The Six Month Rule applies only to initial eligibility. The Quarterly (Rolling Three Month) Rule is used to determine your continuing eligibility for coverage under the Plan.

Q. When are my hours paid into the Fund Office?
A. Hours for a particular month are due into the Fund Office on the 15th of the following month. For example, if you are looking for hours worked in January, they are not due into the Fund Office until February 15.

Q. What are Supplemental Reserve Credits (a.k.a. banked hours) and what are they used for?
A. Hours worked and for which Contributions were received by the Plan in excess of 1,750 hours in a Calendar Year will be designated as Supplemental Reserve Credits. Supplemental Reserve Credits are excess Employer Contributions that were not used to maintain your eligibility for Plan benefits during the past period. They may be used to continue coverage during periods when you have not obtained enough Employer Contributions to maintain eligibility. The maximum amount of Supplemental Reserve Credits that may be accrued is 1,800.

Q. What happens if I lose my eligibility for benefits through the Plan?
A. If your eligibility would cease due to insufficient Employer Contributions, and if you do not have sufficient Supplemental Reserve Credits to maintain coverage, you will receive a loss of coverage notice from the Fund Office. You may elect to continue coverage either by making self-payments or through COBRA Continuation Coverage (see page 30 of your SPD for the rules applying to Continuation Coverage Under COBRA). Once you have made your election between self-payment and COBRA Continuation Coverage, however, it cannot be changed.

If you elect to continue coverage by making self-payments, you will be required to make the minimum self-payment per month necessary to make up for the shortfall in Employer Contributions and provide continued coverage. The amount of your self-payment will be calculated by multiplying the applicable hourly contribution rate by the shortfall in Employer Contributions. You may continue coverage by making self-payments until you once again satisfy the Plan’s continuing eligibility rules, but you will not be allowed to make full or partial self-payments for a period lasting longer than 18 consecutive months.

Q. How will I know that my employer is paying in my benefits correctly?
A. Following each calendar quarter, you will receive a statement from the Fund Office that shows the hours and benefit amounts that were reported to the Fund Office on your behalf for that quarter.

If you have questions, contact the Fund Office at 952-851-5788 or toll free at 844-468-5916, or go online to twincitycarpentersfringefunds.com.
Central Iowa Carpenters Pension Plan Trust Fund

Frequently Asked Questions

Q. I recently moved, how do I change my address?
A. For your protection, all address changes must be submitted in writing. Please call the Fund Office to request a change of address form. Once you complete the form, you can either mail or fax the form back to the Fund Office.

Q. I am currently receiving a monthly pension benefit from the Plan and would like to change the tax withholding. What needs to be done?
A. You can change your tax withholding as often as you wish by completing a new W-4-P form which can be obtained from the Fund office. Once this form is completed, you must return it to the Fund office for implementation on the next possible monthly benefit check.

Q. I am currently receiving a monthly pension benefit from the Plan. What happens if I do not receive my check?
A. Although the Fund office makes every effort to ensure that your monthly benefit arrives on time, sometimes it is possible that the delivery of your check is delayed. There is a possibility that your check gets lost in the mail processing. If, for any reason, you do not receive your check by the 10th day of the month, you must contact the Fund office so that a replacement check can be mailed to you. A safe and secure way to receive your monthly benefit is through the direct deposit method. If you'd like to change how you receive your benefit, please contact the Fund office for a direct deposit sign up form.

Q. I am currently receiving a monthly pension benefit from the Plan and would like to change the bank information. How do I change this information?
A. You can change your direct deposit information by completing a new Direct Deposit Form which can be obtained from the Fund office. Once this form is completed, you must return it to the Fund office for implementation.

Q. I would like to know what my monthly benefit would be if I choose to retire. How do I obtain this information?
A. You can contact the Pension Department by calling 1-877-469-2106 and requesting that an estimate be mailed to you. If you are married, you will be required to submit your spouse’s information so that an estimate can be provided with all the Joint and Survivor options available. Additionally, if you have been divorced previously, you must submit a copy of your final divorce decree to the Pension Department.

Q. How far in advance should I request an application for retirement?
A. You can request an application for retirement at any time during the 180 days prior to your expected retirement date, but not later than the last working day of the month prior to the month in which you want to retire with this Plan.

For more information, call 515-280-5348.

NCSRCC Health Fund (Wisconsin)

Forms, forms and more forms! Members frequently ask the Claims Department staff why they have to complete forms, especially when they feel like they have already provided the information needed and nothing has changed.

Q. Why do we have to fill out a Family Information Form?
A. You are required to fill out a Family Information form annually, whether or not there are changes to address, phone numbers, marital status, other insurance, etc. The purpose of the Family Information form is to ensure that we have accurate data to process claims. Any claims that the Fund has on file are held for 10 days waiting for the completed, signed Family Information form. If the form is not received within 10 days, claims will be denied. Once the Fund receives the completed, signed Family Information form, claims will be reprocessed. Claims that are denied are returned to the provider who may then bill you directly. To avoid unnecessary billing, please return the completed, signed form as soon as possible. If there is a change any time throughout the year, please call the Fund Office right away.

Q. Why do we have to complete an Injury Form?
A. The purpose of the Injury Form is to determine if there is a third party, such as Workers Compensation, that is responsible for payment of the service or item. Claims are held for 10 days and if the Injury Form is not completed and signed, claims will be denied. If the Injury Form is returned and there is no indication that a third party is responsible, the NCSRCC Health Fund will process the claim in accord with the Plan.

Q. What is an Explanation of Benefits (EOB)?
A. The EOB is sent after a claim is processed and explains how the claim was paid or denied. At the bottom of the EOB, memo codes explain how and why a claim was paid or denied along with a description of what the Health Fund paid, if applicable. The memo codes also explain what the provider discount is, if any, and also the member’s payment responsibility. The member’s payment portion is typically the annual deductible and co-insurance. Some services and items on the same claim may be paid and some may be denied. It is important to read all of the memo codes and descriptions, but don’t hesitate to contact the Claims Department if you have any questions.

For more information, call the NCSRCC Health Fund Claims Department at 800-424-3405.

The St. Croix Crossing bridge, connecting Oak Park Heights, Minn., and St. Joseph, Wis., is estimated to cost between $580 million and $646 million. The new four-lane bridge will replace the aging Stillwater Lift Bridge as the main crossing between Minnesota and Wisconsin. The project is designed to protect and minimize the impact on the historic and natural resources in the area and will incorporate pedestrian and bike paths along the St. Croix National Scenic Riverway.

St. Croix Crossing is a joint venture between Lunda and Ames construction companies, as well as between the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin. Carpenters and pile drivers from Locals 322, 464, 930, 1382 and 1847 have all worked on the project. Construction on river piers for the bridge foundation began in Spring 2013. All work is slated to be completed in November 2016.

Minnesota Legislative Conference

The 2015 Minnesota Legislative Conference was held March 9-10 in Saint Paul. The goal of the conference was to inform members about decisions made by the Legislature that affect their daily lives, including opportunities for construction jobs and preserving our standard of living.

March 9 included a reception attended by more than 50 legislators, as well as members from the Laborers and Operating Engineers. March 10 included information presented by UBC officials and public officials. Following the conference, members traveled to the State Capitol where they visited with their area legislators.
Wisconsin Legislative Conference

The 2015 Wisconsin Legislative Conference was held March 10-11 at Inn on the Park in Madison, Wis. The conference was held in conjunction with the Wisconsin State Council of Carpenters. The event included two days of speakers, an evening reception with state legislators, and meetings with individual member legislators at the State Capitol the following day. Hot topics included opposing Right to Work legislation and preserving prevailing wage laws, worker misclassification, the state budget and transportation funding.

Assembly Minority Leader Peter Barca (D-Kenosha) said passage of RTW legislation is “a wake up call” for the working class.

Rep. Robb Kahl (D-Monona) said union members need to become more active politically, and not vote for anti-union candidates.
‘Discover Apprenticeship’ sessions offered at WI Training Centers

Training Centers in Wisconsin are offering “Discover Apprenticeship” sessions monthly at each of its three training centers. People interested in building careers in carpentry, floor covering and millwrighting are encouraged to visit the Southern Training Center in Madison the first Wednesday of the month, the Central Training Center in Rothschild the third Wednesday of every month, and the Eastern Training Center in Kaukauna the fourth Wednesday of every month.

Events are held from 6-7 p.m. and pizza is served. Interested parties are encouraged to bring a parent, spouse or friend to learn more at these informative sessions.

Construct Tomorrow events expose students to the trades

For the first time, Training Centers in Minnesota participated in several Construct Tomorrow career exploration events offered at local high schools throughout the state.

The Construct Tomorrow organization provides information to youth about apprenticeship career training and opportunities in the construction industry. The event is a partnership between MN Department of Labor and Industry, trade apprenticeship coordinators, contractors and schools.

Training Center staff demonstrate tools at the events and give students a hands-on opportunity to see what working in the trades might entail. Students learn about the many opportunities that are available in the trades, and that they can build careers for themselves by using their hands.

“The trades are an important part of our economy and our community,” said Duluth School Superintendent Bill Gronseth. “Yes, four-year degrees are important as well, but we all play different roles and we all have different strengths.”

This year events were held in Duluth, Eagan, Rochester, St. Cloud and Saint Paul, exposing thousands of students to opportunities in the trades.

Local 361 gives back to veterans and families in need

Second-year apprentices from Locals 361 and 606, along with Instructor Tim White, volunteered in Danbury, Wis., July 6-10 to help build the Dairyland Outdoor Veteran Retreat center. The center was created by a group of Wisconsin citizens who realized there was a need for a place for our country’s military heroes to relax and enjoy the great outdoors.

Dairyland Outdoor Veterans Retreat will build and maintain a 14-acre campground with tent campsites, RV pads, cabins and a lodge for respite care to provide veterans with a rural retreat to rest and restore themselves.

Members from Local 361 in Duluth recently participated in a Habitat for Humanity project in Hinckley, Minn. They worked on a four bedroom, two bath home for a family in need. With Habitat, the family pays for the home with a zero interest loan and most — if not all — labor is donated so the family’s portion is largely material costs. Habitat families are also required to put 200 hours of their own sweat equity labor into the project.
The Council donated a set of engraved shotguns, valued at $5,000, to the Youth Hunting Club of MN. The guns were presented at Minnesota Horse and Hunt Club in Prior Lake, Minn., after a fire destroyed the gear the Club’s youth hunt summer camps use to promote the sport of shooting to 12-16 year olds.

Apprentices from Locals 68 and 322 helped complete the decking of a new water fowl shooting station at the Horse and Hunt Club in Prior Lake, Minn. Chippewa Wood Products donated materials for the project. This wheelchair-accessible station will be dedicated at the Carpenters Shotgun Tune-Up Sunday, September 13, in honor of disabled veterans.

Apprentices from Local 314 helped two families finish construction on houses they had undertaken through the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Mutual Self Help Housing Program. Though the families had begun construction last July, they were behind schedule in early December and winter weather threatened.

In conjunction with Habitat for Humanity, the apprentices spent two days helping the families get back on track.

“Coming out here and working on the houses was a great learning experience for the apprentices,” said Local 314 member Tim Deininger. “It gives them a chance to encounter and learn from situations you just can’t replicate in the classroom.”

Local 1091 members finish home build for deserving veteran

When disabled Air Force veteran Chuck Stewart of Underwood, ND, was left in dire straights with an unfinished house and no contractor to build it, members of Carpenters and Millwrights Local 1091 in Bismarck stepped in to help.

Stewart and his wife had hired a contractor to build a house with an open floor plan and main floor bedrooms in order to accommodate his condition of pulmonary fibrosis. Unfortunately, their contractor died in January 2014. After hiring another contractor — and paying out $86,000 — the new contractor took the money and ran, leaving the Stewarts with an unlivable house and no cash to finish the project.

When Local 1091 members heard about the dilemma, they called up Stewart and offered their assistance. They began work on the house in the Fall, which still needed everything from sheetrock and flooring to wiring and plumbing. Some materials were donated, and union laborers got involved as well. The Minot Builders Association contributed electrical and plumbing help.

Several apprenticeship classes worked on the site, gaining skills in framing and sheetrock. They also learned how to fix mistakes that had been made by the previous contractor.

“This was an absolutely worthwhile project for our apprentices to work on because they saw how things were done the wrong way,” said Carpenter Instructor John Doubek. “The real-world experience of fixing someone else’s mistakes helped them learn the right way to do things. It was great hands-on experience for them.”

Fixing the mistakes included re-working most of the framing, fixing the openings for exterior windows and doors, and leveling out the concrete floor. Apprentices also rocked the walls and ceilings in every room and re-built an 8x8-foot exterior deck so that it was up to code.

The project was completed in May, allowing the Stuart family to finally move in after having spent a winter living in a camper.

“They were ecstatic to have everybody step in and offer support,” said Business Representative Levi Backhaus. “They really appreciated everything we did.”

Nathan Schroeder: Council helps him live his Iditarod dream

Local 1348 millwright Nathan Schroeder of Chisholm, Minn., is no stranger to cold and competition. As a dog musher he’s spent many hours on the back of a sled, encouraging his dogs to go farther and faster. That drive has taken him to three championship wins in the John Beargrease Sled Dog Marathon, and to his second appearance at the world-famous Iditarod race in Alaska this past winter.

“Every day since I was 12 I envisioned myself racing the Iditarod,” Nathan admitted. “I’ve spent decades building my dogsled team and getting ready to race.”

Last year, Nathan placed 17th in the Iditarod and was named Rookie of the Year. This year’s Iditarod started with a field of 78 mushers and Nathan began the race with 16 dogs. He placed 24th in the nearly 1,000-mile, nine day race.

Nathan said he is dissatisfied with his performance in the race, and is already itching to go back in 2016.

“I’m not trying to impress anyone but myself,” he said. “The drive to do this, to want to be better, is strong.”

One challenge to being able to live his dream is having the financial ability to travel to the event, feed and outfit his dogs, ship supplies to Alaska, pay the $3,000 entry fee, haul his team and more.

Nathan could compete in the Iditarod. If you followed his race, you often saw Council logos on banners, clothing, trailers and more. Other Locals donated money as well, including Locals 548 and 1348.

Frank Schmechel: Experienced team heads up volunteer projects

Each summer, Frank Schmechel, retired member of Local 1146, gathers other retired Local 1146 members, as well as friends and family, and travels to places like North Carolina, Wyoming and Colorado to restore and preserve historic structures in National Parks and Forests across the country. Utilizing his skills and knowledge from 34 years in the field, Frank and his team spend two weeks each summer at different sites across the United States, camping and volunteering their time. Frank’s team includes Lyle Bonlander, Stephanie Fahringer, Tom Leick, Tom VanBeek and Paul Hickey.

This tradition began with a partnership years ago with a nonprofit that organizes groups to restore buildings and structures on federal land. After working with this group, Frank began coordinating separate trips with a Regional Archeologist for the Park Service, allowing the work to be stretched out for a longer period of time. Frank’s team includes Lyle Bonlander, Stephanie Fahringer, Tom Leick, Tom VanBeek and Paul Hickey. Their most recent project, in Summer 2014, was in Encampment, Wy. A historic fire tower there was recently moved to a museum and Frank’s team helped restore it. Many of the fire towers in the United States were built in the early 1900s and states are celebrating their fire tower centennials with restoration efforts. Much more work needs to be done and Frank said they may have to make Wyoming their destination again to continue the work.

Projects have ranged from farmsteads to historic resorts to log cabins. One of the sites Frank said he found most interesting was an historic train barn near Eureka, Calif. The barn, previously used for logging, was to be moved closer to town to become an interpretive center. Because of its location, 25 miles into the mountains, pieces of the building that were able to be saved were zip-lined through the forest to its new location. Carpenters saved one truss from the roof as a pattern and rebuilt trusses for the entire structure, using redwood to keep the building historically accurate.

One challenge with a project like this, Frank said, is to rebuild the structure to be earthquake proof and up to code while piecing it together as originally built. Because structures like this are often listed as historic, there are many guidelines to follow.

Other projects Frank has undertaken include an alpine guard station in Lake City, Colo., an historic cabin on an elk reserve in Jackson Hole, Wy., a resort at Interlaken, Colo., an old farmstead in North Carolina that was once a stop on the Underground Railroad, and a barn at a dude ranch in Meeteetse, Wy., where Amelia Earhart spent time.

Frank was both Vice President and President of his Local and also worked as a Business Representative for 10 years. His father was a carpenter in Local 1146 and the reason Frank was inspired to become a carpenter. He continues his volunteering closer to home by assisting with renovations at a nearby food pantry, as well as annual Rebuilding Together projects. He says the reason these annual trips work is the crew that goes with him: they enjoy the projects, each other’s company and the opportunity to use their carpentry knowledge to give back.
Joe Hogan: Train to Inspire program for disabled adults flourishes

Des Moines Local 106 member Joe Hogan never thought he would be up at 4:30 a.m. doing paperwork, taking business calls on break in a portable toilet or applying for grants. However, a man named Dave Mathis entered his life and changed all of that.

Dave has Noonan Syndrome, a disorder that affects multiple chromosomes in the body. Dave has outlived two life expectancies, wears a platform shoe and leg braces to support him while he walks. Several years ago, when Joe was working as a personal trainer at a gym, Dave came in to sign up for membership and personal training. After working with Joe, Dave shared that he had participated in 5k runs and half marathons, but always with his doctor pushing him in a wheelchair.

Joe asked how Dave felt about running his own 5k and Dave agreed without hesitation. They trained together and surprised his doctor when he showed up to push Dave in the race. At that point, Joe said he realized he had the ability to change someone’s life.

Following his experience with Dave, Joe began doing group activities with people with special needs. Each month, they get together for activities such as laser tag, paintball, go carting, fishing, barbecues and group fitness classes. They sit down as a group each month and decide what they would like to do, and what they might like to accomplish.

In the beginning, Joe was paying for these activities out of pocket and held events sporadically. When he reached out for grant assistance, he realized that if he wanted to have access to funding and truly be able to support the group with regular activities, he needed to start a nonprofit organization.

Train to Inspire launched its most recent program to support children with terminal ailments in June. Joe hopes to continue expanding his organization by eventually launching programs for orphaned children, people suffering from addiction and women affected by domestic violence. Although many nonprofit groups focus on a particular cause or demographic, Train to Inspire focuses on changing lives of all kinds.

Joe juggles his commitment to Train to Inspire, his work as a second-year apprentice with the Carpenters Union, and his life as a single father. He attributes donations from the Union as a jumping off point for his organization.

“The Carpenters have set the bar for Union philanthropy in supporting this group.”
— JOE HOGAN
Local 106

Train to Inspire has been able to expand its programs due to the support of the Carpenters Union and its membership. Joe Hogan credits the Union for providing the necessary funding to continue supporting the people he has helped.

“Local 106 and the Council were my first sponsors,” said Joe. “I cannot express into words how thankful I am for their donations. Without that money I would not be able to change the lives I’ve changed.”

“Train to Inspire is a program that provides hope and inspiration to people who need it most,” said Joe. “It’s amazing to see the joy on people’s faces when they are able to achieve something they once thought impossible. It’s truly rewarding.”

Wicks creates a better tape holder

Retired Local 68 member Jerry Wicks had long been frustrated by the low quality of generic tape measure holders and, after 37 years in field, said he felt like he knew good quality. That is why, after his retirement this year, he began handcrafting his own tape measure holders and has begun to sell and market them to his fellow carpenters.

The style of tape holder Jerry makes fit on standard belts with rivets on the belt loop rather than slots, allowing for a more solid grab on a belt or pouch strap. While on the job, Jerry noticed that the holders purchased in general hardware stores were generally of poor quality, and were ruined quickly when wet or used frequently. While he modified the poor quality ones at first, he realized the entire piece needed to be reimagined.

He recently attended the Council’s Hiring Fair and Community Open House in Saint Paul and joined other retirees at the Tool Swap ‘n Shop there. Jerry has also recently launched a website and offers his products for sale online. He plans to extend his product line to include drywall aprons and pouches, continuing to use American-made materials and craft them by hand in Northfield, Minn.

Junes invents new steel stud finder

Local 322 member Greg Junes has worked in the field for more years than he cares to admit. Although he worked for a non-union contractor at the start of his career, Greg joined the Carpenters Union 23 years ago and has used his experience to contribute a new tool to the industry.

Greg is the founder of Qwik Back Products and the inventor of Qwik Mag II, which he says is the fastest steel stud finder on the market. With 27 pounds of pull, it can detect metal through 1/2” or 5/8” sheetrock or other thicker building material. It finds studs through ceramic tile or 3/4” plywood paneling. It does not use batteries and Greg says it will “last forever”.

After so many years in the field, Greg said he saw a need to remove drywall with less mess. His tool finds the exact center of screws in the wall, allowing carpenters to easily back them out. The finger loop allows the user to move it around on the wall to locate a stud or screw, and the strength of the magnet will stay where the metal stud or screw is found, thereby eliminating the guesswork and unwanted holes in the wall. If there is a covered electrical box or mud ring, Qwik Mag II helps find the perimeter of the box to allow precise cutting of the drywall.

According to Greg, his other products are being used on many high profile jobsites across the country. He said he has future plans for expansion, even as he owns and operates a finishing carpentry company. To learn more, go online at www.qwikbackproducts.com.

Shawn Cotter launches new venture

In March, Shawn Cotter, Local 548 member and Vice President of Operations for signatory contractor S.T. Cotter Turbine Services in Clearwater, Minn., teamed up with petrochemical industry expert John Hanks to form Axis Mechanical Group. AMG is a millwright company specializing in industrial rotating and reciprocating equipment for the petrochemical industry. Based in Houston, Texas, AMG places highly skilled and safety-conscious union millwrights on jobsites to complete installation, maintenance, repair, overhaul and upgrade projects.

Do you have a new product you’ve invented to make work in the construction industry just a little bit easier? If so, contact Ramona Haines at 651-379-0218 or rhaines@ncsrcc.org.
Each year, the Regional Council awards dozens of scholarships to children of members to help them further their education. Applicants must have a parent or guardian who is a member in good standing, and must be enrolled in an accredited post-secondary program. Scholarships are a one-time, $500 grant. An additional scholarship of $250 was given to those students who are studying in a construction-related field or a career that enhances the mission of our Council (noted with an asterisk).

SISTERS IN THE BROTHERHOOD TAKE PRIDE

Sisters in the Brotherhood hosted a booth at Pride Weekend in Minneapolis June 27-28 at Loring Park. Passersby were invited to play hammerschlagen and learn more about the Carpenters Union.

For more information about the NCSRCC Sisters in the Brotherhood, contact Barb Pecks at 651-379-0227 or bpecks@ncsrcc.org. She can help you get involved with the Saint Paul-area committee, or help you establish a committee in your own area of the Council.

Joining Sisters in the Brotherhood is an opportunity for women members to learn more about their union, receive encouragement, and find ways to participate at the Local and Regional Council levels. It is a chance to talk with other women in the trades, to network and support each other, and to share tricks of the trade.
