IN THIS COURSE YOU WILL LEARN

Pro 10 training focuses on the fundamental core of training topics called the Core 4. The Core 4 include Safety, Communication, Mutual Respect and Professionalism (4 hours). These topics provide the framework for a supportive team approach that includes tradespersons, contractors and end users, all of whom will benefit from the values reaffirmed within this program. These core subjects help to create and maintain a more respectful, productive and safe work site.

In addition, 6 hours of training will be provided on various topics, including:

• Worker readiness
• Construction project economics
• Personal finance
• Importance of customer relations
• Embracing diversity
• Communication training
• Supervisor/Foremen training
• Addiction awareness
• Collaborative problem solving
• History of the UBC
WHY DO I NEED MORE TRAINING?
Pro 10 is professional training that goes beyond technical skills. It is about communication, respecting others and their jobs, and accomplishing things together. This training is important to everyone — union workers, contractors and end users — because respect for others is a requirement at all levels.

A LUC INITIATIVE:
Pro 10 was created by a Labor-Users-Contractors committee in Minnesota, which consists of top construction industry professionals. Pro 10 was developed as a professional training course intended to help our union members go beyond technical skills and develop cooperation and an understanding of each person’s role in an effort to maintain and grow market share.
